Board President Report

REFLECTING ON A TRANSFORMATIVE YEAR

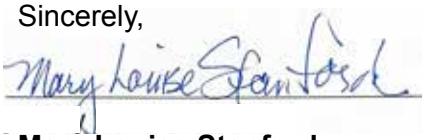
While a whirlwind, this past year at the helm of the Friends of Five Rivers Board of Directors was very rewarding. Working alongside such talented and dedicated Board members has left me inspired and optimistic about the future of our organization. I am also grateful to our DEC partners and the Five Rivers staff for their guidance and support in the many events and activities Friends of Five Rivers undertakes.

Most of all, I extend my sincere thanks to our own Friends of Five Rivers staff for their steadfast dedication to providing high-quality environmental education programs for all generations. Everything we do as a Board and as an organization is mission-driven, with the goal of supporting our educators. Achieving this requires the collective efforts of our members, volunteers, and the broader community -- both through participation and financial support.

A true financial game-changer for our organization this past year was being named in John Kent's estate, including his Vanguard brokerage account. John Kent was a former DEC employee and an avid birder, and his legacy with Friends of Five Rivers will undoubtedly endure for decades. His generous gift provides a powerful springboard for future financial development. Our Finance Committee is currently analyzing the best ways to responsibly steward and grow these funds. If you love Five Rivers and nature as deeply as John did, I encourage you to consider Friends of Five Rivers -- the nonprofit support organization of the Center -- in your estate planning.

We are always open to ideas that can strengthen and improve our organization. If you have suggestions or are interested in serving on a committee, please contact me at president@friendsoffiverivers.org.

Sincerely,



Mary Louise Stanford
Board President

The mission of Friends of Five Rivers is to support environmental education at Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, as well as to enhance the experience of visitors to Five Rivers and to promote the interests of the Center.

Our vision is to cultivate and inspire lifelong environmental stewards who appreciate the interconnectedness of nature in our lives and the world around us.

2025 Events & Activities In Photos

Another wonderful year of successful events to benefit Friends of Five Rivers. From the top left clockwise, numerous attendees listen to Steve Trimm talk about his late father, Wayne, and his significant contributions to Five Rivers. Glennpeter Jewelers provided a beautiful venue for the 3rd annual Appetizer & Auction reception, and then of course Smokey Bear makes an appearance during the annual Five Rivers Fall Festival.

Executive Director Report

FORTIFYING OUR FOUNDATION FOR CONTINUED GROWTH

While 2024 was a year of forging new partnerships, 2025 was a year of strengthening those relationships and reinforcing the foundation of our organization as a whole. Many important stepping stones were put into place to shore up our footing as we now look ahead to deepening our impact across all areas of Friends of Five Rivers.

The strategic plan developed in 2023 outlines six core focus areas: education -- the cornerstone of our organization -- along with outreach and financial development, membership, staffing, volunteerism, and board development. Over the past year, we have worked diligently to advance each of these priorities.

In education, our staff continues to deliver high-quality, science-based programs. We have increased our involvement in the broader community, raising awareness of who we are and what we offer. Membership remains steady, and we are preparing to launch a new membership initiative aimed at simplifying the process while expanding participation. Our staff works cohesively as a team, and with the recent award of a Parks and Trails Partnership Grant, we are excited to add an Advancement Officer to support our continued growth.

Friends of Five Rivers is only as strong as the volunteers who support us with outstanding energy and enthusiasm. We are always seeking new volunteers to join our ranks, especially Guided School Program instructor volunteers. Our Board brings a diverse range of skills and is actively applying its expertise to help professionalize the organization. As with our volunteer corps, we remain open to welcoming new perspectives and talents to our Board and committees.

I encourage you to consider becoming involved in one area or another if you are not already. Our committees are charged by the Board with researching and proposing ways to continually strengthen our operations. If you have skills related to finance, fund development, membership, or other areas, I invite you to connect with me to continue the conversation. As the saying goes, it takes a village -- and we are fortunate to be supported by a growing community that values environmental education and the natural world.

I extend my heartfelt thanks to all who have helped ground our organization and build the foundation for steady growth over the past five decades. Here's to using these well-placed stepping stones as we continue building in 2026 and look ahead to an exciting 55th anniversary in 2027.

Onward and upward!

Director of Education Report

TODAY IS A GOOD DAY TO GO OUTDOORS!

Did you know May 2025 was the 6th wettest May recorded in Albany, NY since 1826? You absolutely did if you were a part of the Guided School Program! Schools arrived ready to weather the storm. Why would schools visit in such miserable weather? Because teachers know their students will embark on a meaningful day of outdoor learning which is enhanced, not dampened, by the weather.

The rain brought out the best in the Guided School Program. Early each morning the prep room, affectionately known as the hive, was full of worker bees asking how they could assist with rainy day lesson preparations. Volunteers, interns, and staff from maintenance, Friends, and DEC buzzed about gathering materials. Buckets of plant laden pond water were collected. Waterproof covers were gathered for clipboards and benches, as well as weather-proof attire for students who arrive in need of it. Aquatic specimens were plucked from muck filled nets. Indoor classroom spaces were prepared in case of a deluge. The hive was full of activity. Each industrious worker set about their task with a quiet hum which rose enthusiastically when the buses arrived. The children were here! Time to get wet!

Guides, students, chaperones, and observers did indeed get wet in May. They were not, however, miserable. They were buzzing with sensory experiences. They attended keenly to sounds that broke through the rhythmic pitter-patter and searched out their sources. They focused on fine details caught in raindrop magnifiers clinging to leaves. They breathed in earthy scented air (petrichor) and were calmed by its chemical makeup. The rain became secondary to the connections they made consciously and unconsciously with nature. They were active scientists in a wonderfully wet lab.

May was significant for historic rainfall, unparalleled teamwork, and amplified connections. To the teachers, volunteers, and staff who weathered the storms, thank you for remembering every day is a good day to get outdoors.

Be well, Friends.

MORE VOLUNTEER INSTRUCTORS NEEDED!

If you or someone you know enjoys the outdoors and would like to share your enthusiasm with children, please contact Friends Education Director, Nancy Conway, for more information at education@friendsoffiverivers.org . If you are not interested in becoming an instructor, we still would like to see YOU. Register for a program today!

2025 PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Guided School Program instructors led 211 groups containing 2,483 students accompanied by 676 adult chaperones. The most popular lessons included Stream Life (grades 3-4), World of Pond (grades 5-8), Exploring the Outdoors (preschool to grade 1), and Marvelous Maples (preschool to 2nd grade).

Friends was awarded a Parks and Trails New York Partnership Grant to update Goose Lodge for Maple programming. The updates included the purchase of a more efficient evaporator and the installation of radiant heating to cut the chill in this uninsulated building. Stop in on Saturdays in March to see the evaporator and feel the warmth!

Diversity is a strength. Friends programming embraces this fact by actively practicing inclusivity in our programming. The Haaf Family's donation funded the creation of an ADA pond site which allowed multiple 5th through 8th grade students who use wheelchairs to engage fully in World of Pond activities. For English Language Learners, Friends is working with DEC to have our most popular lesson materials translated into Spanish, a bridge language used by many of our visiting school students.

Friends Adult Programming grew this year to include Adult Nature Camp! From stream walks to blue bird nestbox building to journaling, participants engaged in everything fun and positive that the word camp conjures up. As luck would have it, two participants in the July session were professional singers who graciously led fellow campers in two-part harmony as we hiked along. A truly memorable experience! For more information, see page 9 and look for Adult Nature Camp registration in April.

Friends continues to offer additional programing for adults and families including Intro to Honey Bees in late June, Honey Tasting in late August, Talk and Trek Continuing Education Sessions from November to April, and Maple Sugaring at Home in January and February. If you have a topic you'd like to see offered, please let us know.

2025 PROGRAM FEEDBACK

"I have always thought I was close to nature and supportive. But it was more observation than participation…Today moved me in a new direction, or maybe back onto the path."
~ Adult Camper, Summer 2025

"I think the lesson was excellent! It incorporated activities for visual, auditory and hands-on learners! The children connected with the hands-on simulations – it was a lot of fun for them."
~ 1st Grade Teacher, Marvelous Maples lesson

The best part was "the vast amount of information we covered in a short time, in a very relaxed and informal atmosphere. The stickers were very helpful! There was a lot of hands-on activity and movement out of our seats." ~ Adult Participant, Intro to Honey Bees

"Each part of the lesson sparked a lot of interest. All the hands-on examples were great, and the instructor was clear and encouraged participation from each child."
~ Homeschool Group, Maple Sugaring at Home lesson

"Amazing instructor! Amazing lesson! Can't say enough wonderful things about this field trip. The children are so engaged!" ~ 4th Grade Teacher, Stream Life lesson

"The whole lesson connected with our science content on ecosystems. Our guide was fantastic!"
~ 5th Grade Teacher, World of Pond

Adult Nature Camp "was a safe space to be silly, learn and try new things and have fun." Our guide was "a WONDERFUL camp leader. The only downside was the heat and humidity and having to go back to the "real world" when camp was over!" ~ Adult Camper, Summer 2025

"We love learning with our senses. The class was very engaged the entire time with hands-on drilling and tapping in the spile to thinking about trees and being thankful for them and our food."
~ Preschool Teacher, Marvelous Maples

"The students were engaged the whole time. I feel that all of the activities were thoughtfully planned. The part where we discussed pollination was interesting and connected with our science curriculum. When we return to school, we will discuss what we found interesting, what we learned, and anything that surprised us!" ~ 2nd Grade Teacher, Insects lesson

"Observing the organisms closely was the most useful part because careful observation is an underutilized skill, and I have to work on it constantly in class." ~ 3rd Grade Teacher, Stream Life lesson

"Our guide was amazing! She was so enthusiastic, and awesome with the kids! They enjoyed using the nets to find the animals. Very exciting!" ~ Middle School Teacher, World of Pond lesson

"Thank you for a great series! Your enthusiasm is infectious. Yesterday's Session #3 was fascinating."
~ Talk and Trek Participant, Fall 2025

"Our kids loved it. The students loved the insect table – very hands on! The Guide was very fun and engaging. Thank you!!" ~ 1st Grade Teacher, Exploring the Outdoors lesson

"The timeframe was perfect! All of the kids were able to explore and participate. Collecting the creatures in the water – they loved it!" ~3rd Grade Teacher, Stream Life lesson

RECOGNIZING RETIRED GSP INSTRUCTORS

During our annual Volunteer Appreciation dinner in November, we honored all Guided School Program (GSP) instructors for their steadfast dediction in guiding and inspiring young student scientists. We also recognized our retired instructors who combined, guided 18,525 students. Our own Nancy Conway and Nan Payne wrote a special song of gratitude for them to the tune of "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain When She Comes" as they were presented with umbrellas to represent all the weather they have endured while guiding and the blue skies we hope are ahead in their retirement.

Beautiful Day Family Programming

FULL HOUSE OF HAPPY PRESCHOOLERS

Hello All,

This past year was a great one for the seasonal Beautiful Day programs for preschoolers, as well as the Summer Nature Weeks program for families.

The weather for the four-week Winter Beautiful Day session was very mild with zero to only a dusting of snow. Families filled nine of the ten available participation spots for this session as well as the late Fall program. There was plenty of snow in December and adults and children alike enjoyed walking the grounds looking for animal footprints and discovering that seeds are eaten by deer, mice and birds.

In between the Beautiful Day seasons, Summer Nature Weeks programming saw a full house. One of the highlights was watching the children interact with the finely crafted animal mounts we borrowed from the New York State Museum. We had squirrel mounts for all three weeks of the program. They were great fun for the children to see, touch, draw and write about. We also borrowed squirrel skulls from the DEC Research Lab up the hill from the Center. Partnering with the New York State Museum and DEC Research Lab enhanced the children's experience.

I began the Summer Nature Weeks program in the 1980s as a DEC Educator and have continued to coordinate the program for 15 years as a Friends of Five Rivers Educator. In 2026, DEC Educators at Five Rivers will once again lead Summer Nature Weeks; I will run the Beautiful Day program. I hope you will bring your families to both programs and continue to enjoy the great outdoors together!

VOLUNTEER FAMILY THRIVES

The Volunteer Family at Friends of Five Rivers continues to thrive. This year, we proudly welcomed 21 new volunteers, reaching and surpassing our goal from the previous year. We now stand at 102 total volunteers, each playing a meaningful role in supporting our mission.

Volunteers are truly the foundation and heart of Friends of Five Rivers. Through their generosity of time, talent, and experience, they strengthen both our organization and the Five Rivers Environmental Education Center.

When visitors arrive at the Center, they are greeted by a friendly Greeter volunteer who offers a warm smile, answers phone calls, assists with the Gift Shop, and helps answer any questions.

When a school bus is in the parking lot, it signals the presence of our Educational Volunteers, who are teaching children about the wonders of wildlife and the environment – planting seeds of curiosity and stewardship.

During on-site events, volunteers play a vital role in preparing and assisting with activities and ensuring everything is left in perfect order.

At Community events, our volunteers serve as ambassadors for Friends of Five Rivers, sharing our mission and answering questions for the public.

Volunteers are vital to every organization. Their service enriches both the organization and themselves. Volunteering can improve physical and mental well-being, provide a strong sense of purpose, build and strengthen relationships, encourage mindfulness and presence and offer positive focus amid daily challenges.

Volunteering at Five Rivers is always based on your own time and availability. If interested in becoming part of our volunteer family, you are invited to email me at volunteer@friendsoffiverivers.org for more information.

We look forward to welcoming you.

Friends' Gift Shop

UNIQUE NATURE-RELATED MERCHANDISE CONTINUES TO DRIVE SALES

We are pleased to report that the Gift Shop enjoyed another exceptional year. This success reflects the dedication of our volunteers, a continued focus on environmentally friendly and locally sourced merchandise, the ability to accept credit sales, and participation in new events.

We are deeply grateful for the generosity of our volunteers, whose talents and time make a meaningful difference. Our very own Five Rivers photographers generously donate their photos for use in making photo cards, a volunteer creates and donates photo cards, and another volunteer handcrafts and donates unique felted bags. All proceeds from the sale of these cards and bags are 100% profit and go directly toward supporting our environmental education programs.

The implementation of Square for Retail in February 2025 has significantly improved inventory management, pricing, and reporting, while saving valuable volunteer time. It has streamlined the sales process for Greeters, ensured faster customer transactions, and simplified tracking and reporting for Friends' events.

In 2025, the Gift Shop returned to the Delmar Farmers Market, connecting with new audiences and raising awareness of Five Rivers' programs and events. Additional sales at Friends' tabling at the Tulip and Pride Festivals, along with sales associated with DEC Camps held at Five Rivers, provided new sources of income.

Looking ahead, continued volunteer support will remain essential, particularly for markets, events, and inventory management. We remain committed to eco-friendly and locally sourced merchandise and expanding our presence at Five Rivers events.

After your hike, be sure to visit the Center to meet Argo, our resident barred owl, explore our interactive exhibits, and stop by the Gift Shop for unique souvenirs.

Membership Update

MEMBERSHIP CHANGES ON HORIZON

In 2025, our membership held steady at an average of approximately 355 dues-paying members, a slight drop from the previous year. While we welcomed a handful of new members, retention proved challenging due to a variety of factors.

In response, the Board of Directors charged the Membership Committee, chaired by Monica Sharp, with reviewing current membership levels and exploring strategies to both increase overall membership and improve retention. After research and thoughtful discussion, the committee proposed simplifying membership to just two levels: $40 for individuals and $60 for families. This approach would be paired with a greater emphasis on recurring donations.

The goal of this new structure is to ease administrative demands, ensure fairness in benefits offered, and encourage members to opt into recurring donations - whether monthly, quarterly, or annually. Recurring contributions are especially critical, as they provide a more reliable and consistent cash flow to support operating expenses.

This new membership initiative will not be launched for several more months, as backend work is required within our Customer Relationship Management (CRM or database) system to ensure a smooth transition and to enable easy recurring donation options.

We extend sincere thanks to Athena Coburn for her diligence as Membership Coordinator. Athena has remained on top of renewals and has taken the extra step of handwriting notes to many members to thank them for their loyal support. She will continue to monitor membership and reach out as needed.

How can you help increase membership?

Please help spread the word that while Friends of Five Rivers is the nonprofit support organization for the DEC-owned and operated Five Rivers Environmental Education Center, we are a membership-driven organization that relies primarily on general donations, grants, and sponsorships to fulfill our mission.

When the time comes to launch our new membership levels, we also encourage you to consider adding a recurring donation option when renewing your annual dues.

ALL MEMBERSHIP LEVELS CONTINUE TO INCLUDE:

- Savings on educational programs
- A 10% discount on Gift Shop purchases totaling $20 or more
- Complimentary guided member walk in early spring led by our environmental educators
- Membership Matters news bulletin with special announcements
- Occasional members-only Zoom meetings to hear updates on Five Rivers news, educational achievements, new benefits, and more
- Complimentary use of snowshoes
- One vote per membership in the Friends of Five Rivers Annual Membership Meeting (18+ years old)

Community Outreach

TABLING PROVES BENEFICIAL

This year, Friends continued to promote our organization and raise awareness for Five Rivers Environmental Education Center through tabling events across the Capital Region. Friends members tabled at eight events in 2025, speaking to over 900 people at a variety of fairs and festivals. In addition to promotional materials and visuals, depending on the event, DEC loans us their animal pelts and skulls for an interactive display, which always pulls in more engagement as people guess the animals they belong to.

Not included in this outreach count are the hundreds of community members who stopped by our display at the Albany Tulip Festival - the highlight of the year! Volunteers manned the table for two days, selling Friends merchandise and providing an overview of our programming. Despite the cold, wind and muddy conditions the first day, the second day was so successful that we plan to return again this year!

Our wonderful Outreach Coordinator who arranged for these tabling events, John Carson, transitioned out of the role in November after two dedicated years. We are grateful for the work he did building up a team of volunteers and establishing a local outreach presence. Christina Krewson has taken on the role for the new year and is planning to expand outreach to a broader audience in 2026, ultimately driving more visitors to the Center and more supporters for our organization.

WE COULD USE YOUR ASSISTANCE

If you are interested in helping us spread awareness, please contact outreach@friendsoffiverivers.org.
We could always use more tabling volunteers as this outreach is very worthwhile for our organization as a whole.
