

Family Field Trip Descriptions

Winter 2021

Animal Tracking

Wild animals use their energy wisely. Their tracks are purposeful and tell the story of their survival. By studying tracks and looking for additional clues such as scat and chews, we'll piece together their night hikes and get a glimpse into their lives. Designed for ages 6 to 14.

Snowman Birdfeeders

What do birds eat in winter? How do they stay warm? Let's walk the field and forest habitats together to find out. On our way, conditions permitting, we'll build a snowman and provide it with seed for the birds. No snow? No problem! We will sprinkle seeds here and send you home with a baggie to share with the birds at your house. Designed for ages 6 to 12.

Snowshoeing

Learn to snowshoe using Five Rivers' handcrafted wooden snowshoes designed to nestle into one another and make walking easy. Basic steps and turns will have you wandering the trails in no time! Designed for ages 10 and up – snowshoes are too large for younger children.

Sap to Syrup

Twirl a drill, tap a spile and taste sap from maple trees located in the Woodlot. Then head into the Sugar Shack to view the sap to syrup evaporation process. This special program runs in March only.
